suit against Mr. Blair Fraser and Maclean's Magazine has produced significant repercussions in the Legislature of Ontario. There Mr. W. M. Nickle, member for Kingston, has proposed that the press be legally protected in the courts when it asked to disclose the sources of its Information.

The libel suit is still in the courts and its merits are not open to discussion. But already the courts have concluded-by a verdict of the Canadian Supreme Court—an important offshoot of the case. They have ruled that Mr. Fraser, accused of libeling Mr. Wismer, must reveal the names of those who gave him his original information.

This opens up a wide field of possible restriction on a free press. For if newspapers cannot publish information without being compelled to reveal sources, in the case of libel proceedings, they will soon find their sources drying up.

No responsible person suggests that the press shall not be subject to suit for libel, or that it shall not be punished if libel is committed.

The question arising out of Mr. Wismer's suit is solely whether, in defending themselves, journalists like Mr. Fraser must be compelled break their journalistic confidences or risk the displeasure of the courts. In the Ontario Legislature Mr. Nickle proposes to amend the provincial Evidence Act and provide

MR. GORDON WISMER'S LIBEL that no publication or writer may be compelled to reveal his sources of information. This amendment, of course, would offer no protection to the press from libel suits and none would be considered by any Canadian Legislature. It would merely publications and writers to defend themselves, as best they may, without introducing the names of those who gave them the information allegedly libelous. Mr. Nickle is thus tackling a new problem in Canadian law and jour-nalism. Until Mr. Wismer's case raised the point Canadian news papers and reporters never supposed that, if sued for libel, they must break their confidences, name their sources and thus destroy their future sources of information in a free society which needs all the information on public affairs that it can get.

The courts, of course, are not concerned with public policy or the wisdom of legislation. They are concerned solely with the law, they have said, in the court of last resort, that sources in such cases must be revealed. The solution of the problem thereby raised lies with the provincial legislatures and their Evidence It is to be hoped the Ontario Acts. Legislature will set the example by accepting Mr. Nickle's amendment. If it does so other provinces probwill enact similar legislation and remove a very real danger to free public discussion of public

Resort to Mass Arrests

DISPATCHES FROM KENYA indicate that a start has been made on a new offensive against the Mau Mau. Some 700 supporters of the native terrorist society have been rounded up into special prison camps. Earlier reports told of a plan to arrest all of Nairobi's 51,000 Kikuyu tribesmen and release only women, children and those whose employers claim them. These were expected to number about half the total. The remainder, including, authorities hope, all the criminal element, will be placed in rehabilitation camps.

This is a mass operation that will stir uneasiness among western peoples, despite the magnitude of the problem faced by Kenya authorities. We have read too much in recent years of mass deportations, mass arrests, mass incarceration in correction camps. Although the Kenya move may be the result of desperation, it does not reflect well on a nation whose record of colonial administration down through the years has been far in advance of that of SEVERAL WEEKS AGO REEVE Joseph Casey pointed to the anomalous position in which Saanich's representative found himself on the city library board. He could be a member, but, under the old regulations, he could not vote. Thus the municipality was called upon to make its contribution for library service, but had no say on policy matters when noses were counted.

Start of Two Careers

THE INDEX, "VOL. 1, No. 1" ON its dateline is a momentous one in the life of any newspaper. It carries with it a world of promise, an expression of faith in a community, of high hopes backed by hard cash and honest workmanship. It marks the start of a career in which Vol. 25. Vol. 50, Vol. 100 may, if all goes well, provide significant milestones and proof of the validity of the founder's dream.

The Kitimat Northern Sentinel, which published its first weekly issue on April 15, begins life under auspicious circumstances. Both the paper and the community in which it will circulate are at Vol. 1, No. 1, and the prospects are bright that they will grow together to take an important place in the activities of this province. The Times welcomes the Northern Sentinel and extends cordial best wishes.

SMOKE DAMAGE

WITH a somewhat unmedical haste, the B.C. Medical Association recently printed a statement on cigarettes, saying there are only two ways of cutting down on the old coal-tars. One way is to treat the tobacco itself, and the other way is to smoke a filter-tip cigarette. I can think of three other methods. The most pleasing is the good old Oriental water-pipe or hubble-bubble or hoobuy one fitted for cigarettes as well as for pipe-tobacco. you can't very well carry a hookah round in your pocket. You have to smoke it at home . . . preferably in your harem, or at least while reclining on

THE other two methods concern hold-I ers. One is the sort that cools the smoke and thus distils the wicked coaltars, or some of them. Name your poison, in fact, if I may so express myself. I might also say that some cigarettes contain much more tobacco others. I think I've told you, but I'll tell you again, about a stranger who offered my father a smoke on a train. The brand offered to my father was a very comical one, and my father was rude enough to ask why the man smoked it, and the man said "Because it is very rgely made of tobaccco."

Regarding the mysterious damaging of car windshields in this northwestern area and which has made some people panicky, we can, I think, safely discard any idea of vandalism or even ghostly

The answer can be found, I think, in meteorites which are often as small as grain of sand and disintegrate rapidly They fall like showers of dust, which would account for the fall of dust which a, man in a gas station said he saw falling. As the winds are mostly south-westerly here they would bring the meteors in the direction of the area affected. We can thus forget about Mars, flying saucers and even Russia.

The Liberal member for Victoria, who has just finished voting himself a $4,000 increase in salary, adds insult to injury when he suggests that the long suffering taxpayers of Esquimalt township are asking him to "hound the gov ernment" when all they want is justice.

For many years the people of Esqui malt have had to carry on their shoul ders a burden of taxation which should have been paid by the Federal Govern ment. #### THE H-BOMB

The strongest thing that can be said about the H Bomb is that it doesn't alter the truth. Man is still a related being, albeit with different thoughts and ideas:

As a spectacle the bomb opens his es, as a weapon, moves his mercy, as eyes, as a weapon, moves his mercy, as a moral, flood lights his mind!

There are no dark crannies now Man has arrived to view himself in the externalisation of the interior fittings of his own mentality, to face himself in the unleashed power of the atomic age The circle is complete. Ashes to ashes, dust to dust, kingdom to kingdom. Shall

THE fact that the "drys" have announced I their intention to use children to cam-paign for a "No" vote in the next few days demonstrates that they will stop at nothing in their attempt to foist their will on the city,

I am sure that hundreds of citizens, who don't care much one way or another how the vote goes, will be outraged by this tactic. To take innocent children, too im-mature to have formed judgments on such issues, and to use them in a doorto-door propaganda campaign, seems to me mon-strous in its concept and callous in its execution. It vitiates all the pious pleas Keate of the TT's for "wholesomeness" in our

In the same way, it seems to me that the are very far from the truth when they try to persuade us that "Our city is wide open." A cursory survey of their advertisement on this topic shows that six of the establishments they list are not in the city, five are private clubs (which can scarcely be classed as "open") and ten are veterans' organizations.

It must induce a slightly queasy feeling for the vets, to find the spare limbs of the mperance boys around them in this crisis. Would these same people, who now use them so cheerfully, have sanctioned their tot in the chill wastes of the North Atlantic or the cold trenches of France? Was alcohol such a terrible thing when the liquor people were manufacturing it during the war (and thus saving their skins) for use in torpedoes and gyroscopes?

I wonder who the "Drys" claim to be speaking for when they advertise: "Let's keep our good city clean and wholesome for children?" Whose children? Certainly

I hope most profoundly that the next generation will be brought up with a more enlightened approach to drinking than was mine. We were reared, most of us, on the completely fallacious notion that there was something inherently evil about drink—the New Testament injunctions to moderation notwithstanding

We were led to believe that drinking was attractive because our elders said: "Don't touch." The thing to do was to out smart the police. It was a consummate piece of deviltry when you lied about your age at the liquor store and got a license. The hero of the campus was the man who could drink "chug a lug." toss it all off at one gulp. We were taught to conceal our bottles under the night-club table, hoist a furtive snort in a dark alley, hire a hotel bedroom at the Spring formal, and later pay our levies to the bootlegger and the blind-pig operator.

In short, we were taught, at a very tender ê, that it was "clever" to break the law.

do not propose to submit my children to this deceitful and barbaric indoctrination.
There is a purpose for liquor in life. I don't feel that a person should get hysterical about it, on one side or the other. It is a social amenity in much the same category as the cigar box, the candy jar, the medicine cabinet, the flower vase, or the record player. In other words, it is part of the furniture and should be used (or not) at its owner's

We have a chance, one week from today, to show that liquor is our servant and not our master. We have a chance to show that we have, at last, attained maturity; that we are an adult, intelligent people whose every instinct rebels at the nasty, self-demeaning system now imposed on us.

I am in favor of a liberalized liquor law because I believe sane handling will cut down drunkenness and its attendant ills; it will give us better restaurants and better food; it will contribute to the general prosperity and well-being of our community. Finally, I believe that the right to drink liquor is just as valid as the right to read, the right to smoke cigars, the right to listen to music, or (for those who like it) the right to drink

If this plebiscite is lost, I am going to ask you all to support me in a by law denying Frank Hunter the right to put Worcestershire sauce in his tomato juice!

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Polio Prevention Hope

At least there is great hope that polio will soon come under control. Dr. Salk's poly-valent (able to protect from infection with the three main types of virus) vaccine is being prepared in huge lots in the laborator es of several of our big drug firms, which have the facilities and the trained personnel for a tremendous and ticklish ndertaking. No one who has not kept in touch with the way in which viruses are grown on living tissues can im-agine how carefully the work has to be done. Just let one tiny particle of dust enter a flask, carry Dr. Alvarez ing with it a let of bac-eria, and that batch of material must be all over again.

A while ago when I went through Dr. Stanley's great new virus laboratories at the University of California I found people in sterile gowns and caps working in dustless rooms in which the air had been thoroughly filtered and sterilized. Much of the most ticklish work, in which there must be absolutely no contamination, is done by young women whose hands are stuck through rubber diaphragms which fit tightly about their arms. Their hands, encased in sterile gloves, do the work inside of a glass cylinder in which there are no germs.

Taking slivers of still living kidney tissue removed from a monkey, they inoculate the tissue with the virus. Later, the new virus that has grown is harvested, strained and killed with formaldehyde.

LONG TEST PROCESS

Sunshine, 1954 ____

This vaccine can protect against only one type of pollo, hence vaccine from the two other types must now be added. Then the mixed vaccine must be tested again and again until everyone is sure that no living irus is left. Then, and only then, is it ready for injection into children.

Some health authorities have been reluctant to use it, but after such thorough testing, it should be safe. I would gladly ave it used in the cases of my grandchildren It is very hopeful that tests have shown that after one or two or three injections, the child's blood usually contains enough antibodies presumably to protect him against an infection with polio.

The next big question is, how long will the protection last? If it will protect even for one summer, it will be a God-send because it will not be any problem to give susceptible children an injection each spring. Before long all big states and city laboratories are likely to become equipped to study children's blood and to say which ones are safe and which ones need protection, and this will greatly lessen the number that will need

To me, the news that, in Pittsburgh, the parents of from 80 to 95 per cent of the children gave willing consent to the vaccination spite of the violent campaigns made by persons who hate physicians and claim to dispise modern medicine, the vast majority our people have good sense. They know that a new triumph over disease is likely to fol-low the many that have gone before. They remember that in one generation common and terrible scourges, such as typhoid fever, cholera, dysentrry, diphtheria, typhus fever, yellow fever and malaria have been almost wiped from the face of the civilized parts of

STILL WORKING HARD

It must be remembered, also, that those men who are working to make a so-called attenuated or live vaccine, are still hard at it day and night, and when they succeed, their vaccine may be even better than the ent one because it may give protection

I wish everyone in this country could envision the immense amount of apparently un-productive work that has to be done, and the heart-breaking failures that have to be ex-perienced before a big spectacular success comes. I wish, also, that all laymen knew how small usually is the pay of a man like Fleming, who discovered penicillin, or of Salk, who has just made a fine vaccine. These great men work not for money but because great men work not for money but because their genius compels them; they rarely get much of a salary. In the practice of surgery they could easily make from five to ten times what they make in the laboratory. Like monks, they take "vows of poverty." but they prefer this, and they do what the Good Lord intended them to do.

HEART PATIENTS CAN FLY

Many patients with either a bad heart, or what they think is a bad heart, keep wondering if they dare go up in a plane. Many heart specialists answer this by saying, "If you can walk, you can fly." Actually, today it doesn't make much difference to the passengers whether an airplane flies at 4,000 feet or 15,000 feet; the cabin is pressurized, and heave their is no reason why a man and hence their is no reason why a man, even with severe heart disease, should be inconvenienced. If he does feel upset, it is usually because of his uneasiness, and then the stewardess can give him some extra oxygen from a tank which is carried on the plane.

Dr. Alvarez regrets he hasn't the time in which to read or answer requests for infor-

how they'll explain where the great snow-capped mountains and enchanting emerald lakes have gone is difficult to answer. Best suggestion at the moment is to rake in the American dollars and blame the whole thing on Universal International studios of Hollywood, U.S.A. Nor is the topography of the "wheat province" the only inaccuracy of "Saskatchewan." The country's historic North-West Mounted Police are cast in some gory battles which never took place with the Sioux and the Cree Indians. #### Choppers for Nut Meats Are the Greatest Rigs! By PENNY SAVER

Chopped nuts add a zing to any cookie or cakelet don't Chopped nuts add a zing to any cookie or cakelet don't they? Trouble is, they're such a nuisance to muck about with. Take a sharp knife to them, and they fly off in all directions when you start chopping . . least that's what happens to me!

Always ready to make such small kitchen chores a pleasure, a Canadian manufacturer has come to the fore with a dandy a Canadian manufacturer has come to the fore with a dandy nut meat chopper.

I'm thrilled with it, for you don't have to set it up, as you do a meat grinder and it is s-o-o-o easy to use and clean. It consists of a jar with a lid to which is attached a hopper, and handle. You simply put the nuts into the hopper, a few at a time, and holding chopper firmly to the table turn the handle clockwise. The chopped nuts will drop into the waiting jar. Incidentally, each piece is the same size. To cut nuts to an extra fine size, just run them through the chopper twice.

extra fine size, just run them through the chopper twice.

Directions warn that for best results, don't press down on the nuts. They tell you to turn the handle faster when chopping particularly hard nuts, such as brazils. Should some be extra large, it is suggested that you break them up a little before putting them in the hopper. Price of the chopper is 49 cents.

A similar item is the onion and vegetable chopper. When opping up vegetables for sandwiches or tossed salad, you'll find this rig a great boon

It is a measuring cup to which you attach a lid. The handle of the four-blade chopper protrudes through the lid and you simply move it up and down on the vegetables in the cup, until you've chopped them to the desired size. I might add, that this is particularly wonderful if the onions you're chopping are strong. The fumes don't escape because of the lid! Price is 65

Groom's Cousin Hears Vows At Allen-McNaught Wedding

An impressive ceremony in Christ Church Cathedral last Saturday evening, united in marriage Thelma Gloria McNaught, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Franklin McNaught, 533 Raynor Avenue, and David Clifford Allen, son of Mrs. Mildred Allen, 1135 McKenzie Street. The ceremony was performed by the cousin of the groom. Rev. J. S. P. Snowden. Easter lilies, tulips and daffodils decorated the church for the double-ring ceremony, during which traditional organ music was played, including "Ave Maria" during the signing of the register.

Guests were ushered to their places by Bob Alexander, Bill

Clinic Can Help Girl Solve Reading Problem

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, PhD Difficulty in reading very often stems from learned to read properly. A mother writes:

(Q) "When my daughter, who is now a ju school, was young we moved quite often be-cause of my husband's business. Each school she went to taught reading in a different way. The result is that she is confused about how to read and reads very slowly. She is a good student in all subjects that require little read-ing, such as mathematics and science, but she lets her history and English go until the last minute and does them so slowly that she gets poor grades. She talks about going to college but I am worried about whether she will get

Your daughter may be able to get into Hurlock me college, but whether she will be able to stay is another question. She will be expected to do much more reading in college than in high school. If she finds this is a stumbling block now, I can assure you she will find it even more of a barrier would be far better to put her in the hands of a person nows how to correct reading difficulties. Speak to the principal of her school. If there is no reading clinic connected with the school system, ask him to recommend a grade school teacher who is experienced in teaching reading.

Unless you have had special training for it, I suggest that you do not try to help her to improve her reading. She is already confused. You do not want to add to this confusion.

Then have your daughter tutored by this teacher. The only way she can improve her reading is to break her old habits and begin almost from scratch to read in the right way. This may

Arson Appeal Transferred To Vancouver

The B.C. Court of Appeals Tuesday traversed to Vancou-ver for further hearings the case of Peter Oscar Jorgenson, who is appealing a conviction of arson arising out of a De-cember 2, 1950, fire in a one-story building on Hastings Street, Vancouver.

Jorgenson was sentenced to four years of imprisonment by Mr. Justice A. M. Manson folowing an Assize Court trial in Vancouver. Jorgenson is appealing the conviction on the grounds that the arson indictment made ou against him did not state that he "unlawfully and without excuse or color of right" did set fire to the building. He is ask-ing the court to quash the conviction or order a new trial be cause of this legal technicality.

The appeal opened before the court Tuesday but both the Crown, represented by J. S. Burton, and the accused were un able to complete their cases. The court traversed the case to

By BILL PARKER of "Western Television," program direct CBC Wethresday Night's policy of presenting the best drama possible to radio listeners will be continued tonight with a performance of Shakespeare's "Tragedy of King Richard III." of uture. Directed by Andrew Allen, the story Sh peare told of the villiany of Richard will be brought to life by some of Canada's top actors. For those who are not familiar with the play. "Richard III" is the tale of the wickedness of King Richard and of his downfall. It is a story of ghosts who rise from the darkness to remind the evil king of his crimes and the ind the evil king of his crimes, and finally In an article appearing in the latest edition of his death and the coronation of Henry VII.
